Thanksgiving Bag Project deadline nears; turkeys and volunteers especially needed

Thanksgiving is about two weeks away, and we are once again sharing our bounty with our friends and neighbors in and around our church.

We have 130 families signed up for Thanksgiving Bags this year, as the economic divide widens, other food pantries in Syracuse have closed and more people experience food and housing insecurity.

We are inviting everyone to join in this effort by contributing in one or more of the following ways:

Food Donations: frozen turkeys, canned veggies, winter squash, sweet potatoes, canned fruit, muffin/sweet bread mix, cake mix, canned frosting. We are very much in need of turkeys for the larger families.

Monetary Donations: cash or checks made out to UUMC with "Thanksgiving Bags" on memo line. It costs $28 to buy a complete meal for a family of five.

Bag Donations: reusable grocery bags or plastic and paper grocery bags

Volunteering:

Bag Packing after Worship, Sunday, Nov. 18
Bag Distribution at UUMC, 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Nov. 20.

For more information, or to sign up to volunteer, please call me at 315-673-2761. Thank you in advance for any help you can give.

Turkey Update

Turkeys are on sale this week:

- Price Rite on Teall Avenue, 39 cents per pound
- Wegmans, 48 cents per pound with $25 purchase
- Aldi, 87 cents per pound

Pledging update: Goal reachable, but two 'Ifs' must be met

Twenty-five 2018 pledgers are missing-in-action so far for 2019.

Forty-four have pledged $169,472. Over half — 25 — have increased their pledges, critical to reaching our goal.

The big If: If the 25 pledge and increase their pledges, and IF two or three non-pledgers decide to pledge, we can reach our goal of $240,000.

Our annual budget is made up of three parts: giving by members of our UUMC community, rental income of about $110,000 from our second and third floors and giving by our past members — our endowment — of about $65,000.

Actually, there's a fourth category buried within our community giving figure: $46,000 from members who have moved away and continue to support our ministries.

Many also pledged their personal gifts, talents and time to the many ways that we truly are the "hands of Christ" — serving, bringing hope, caring and inspiring persons in our church and wider community.

— Nelson Price

God can do the extraordinary through ordinary people like us

Alicia Wood

Greetings,
Fear and violence seem to be on the rise in these uncertain times.

I know it's easy to get caught up in anxiety and fear. It may seem too overwhelming for one person to solve, fix or change. When things get bad it is easy to become hopeless.

A long time ago, an angel, a messenger of God, came to talk with an ordinary young woman named Mary. The angel shared the message that Mary would give birth to a child, Emmanuel, God with us, Jesus. (Matthew 1:23) When all hope was lost, God gave us new hope, new life, through Jesus.

God calls on ordinary people to do extraordinary things often. It's OK to get overwhelmed.

Sometimes, we need to take a leap of faith and just do something.

Whether we pray, share a smile or an act of kindness, this is a step toward making a change away from anxiety and fear and toward Jesus' love.

Jesus shared with us the love of God here on earth. Every day we can share Jesus' love through our words and actions.

The hope that the little baby

Jesus shared with us so many years ago lives on today. It lives on today as we continue to share the story of Jesus' birth, life, ministry and death.

Today I'm grateful for the relationship I have with Jesus. It affects all the aspects of my life.

I'm grateful for the ministries we are doing together every day.

I look forward to the ordinary people of UUMC working together to do extraordinary things in our city through the love and hope of Jesus Christ.

Peace,

— Pastor Alicia

Sunday, November 4

- Stephen Shepard: Thanks be to God! I defended my master's thesis in chemistry at SU and passed!

Women's Guild

The next meeting is 1:30 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 28, at the home of Margo Kotten, 317 Standish Drive, Syracuse. The program is on our church's Outreach ministry, presented by Galyn Murphy-Stanley, our outreach coordinator.

Some of Upstate's medical students will use our pantry

Galyn
Murphy-Stanley

This month we will welcome SUNY Upstate Medical University students to access UUMC's Food Pantry.

This endeavor begins with a trial period of three months where we will evaluate the students' use of the food pantry, learn their food preferences, streamline our intake procedures and provide the education for the students and staff of issues and resources around food access in Syracuse.

When the Upstate student support team approached us in the spring, I was surprised at their request.

They informed me that the governor had issued a directive to all SUNY campuses to create and/or establish a relationship with a local Food Pantry for their students' use.

Due to this, Syracuse's Upstate University conducted an assessment of their student body and found a notable percentage of their students struggling to find their next meal — those students identify as food insecure.

After meetings and conversation, Upstate's student support has chosen to fold their students into UUMC's established Food Pantry instead of creating their own.

Our Outreach team has done some research on this trend and found that currently 36 percent of U.S. college students are experiencing hunger and lack of stable housing. This number gets worse as the student gets older.

A graduate student has often aged out of their parents' financially supportive umbrella. This often includes lack of health care coverage, car/renters insurance, housing and free food at Mom and Dad's house.

A student age 20 and older not only faces creeping tuition bills, but many new bills that the student has not had to manage independently the past. Food often ends up at the bottom of the list.

Additionally, consider that nontraditional students (those who are older, have families or who have worked prior to college to raise money or, support a family member) are filling our colleges and universities as the U.S. workforce becomes more limited for the uneducated.

Some students have to choose between buying a textbook or buying dinner.

For most students food insecurity is a temporary situation. This is changed by the receiving of a financial aid check, a scholarship award, the end of the semester, graduation and hiring into the workforce.

But for many students who continue directly into graduate school and choose to finish their education as quickly as possible, their hunger follows them.

We will join with Upstate Medical University to ensure fair, free access to nutritious foods for all of their students who would like to partake.

The second Tuesday evening of each month our Food Pantry will be open 5 to 7 p.m. to host Upstate students and any community members from our Food Pantry district who might be needing to gather foods.

If you are interested in joining for a volunteer experience during these times, please contact me at uumcoutreach@twcnny.rr.com.

More than a dozen offer help for families appealing deportation

Church & Society recently asked congregation members to consider helping undocumented immigrant families as they deal with deportation appeals.

Often the bread-winner is in detention. In one case, the bread-winner has had a serious medical incident.

Fourteen members volunteered for various caregiving roles:

- 2 for child care
- 5 for transportation

- 11 for providing food, clothing, household items
- 2 are willing to house an adult
- 1 will house a minor
- 2 volunteered to monitor Border Patrol interventions at the Regional Transportation Center.

Several UUMCers attended the Sanctuary Workshop on Oct. 8 where they learned that “undocumented” really means “under-documented” as the workers have a variety of documents, just not the “appropriate” ones.

Some have worked here several years and have created businesses that contribute to the community. Children born here, of course, are U.S. citizens, as provided by the 14th Amendment to the Constitution. The president has threatened to override the amendment and deny citizenship to newborns.

The CNY Interfaith Coalition may ask congregations to adopt a family to help in their care needs.

Advent sneak peek

Calm and Bright: 200 Years of Silent Night

Our Advent worship series, which starts Dec. 2, marks the 200th anniversary of perhaps the best-loved Christmas carol: “Silent Night.” Our series celebrates the carol’s message over the entire season of Advent and highlight its call for our lives that can guide us all year.

Each Sunday is built around one of the four verses, starting with Peace on Dec. 2 — “Sleep in Peace.”

Video Study

Our Advent video study discussion will be “Home for Christmas.” Even during hard times, the light of Christmas shines brightly. “Home for Christmas” shares the real-life stories of formerly incarcerated men and women as they find work and opportunity through Homeboy Industries in Los Angeles, California. As we hear about their struggles, we will recognize the Advent themes of hope, love and peace in their lives, and maybe in our own.

Our study begins Fridays on Nov. 30 at 12:30 p.m. and Sundays on Dec. 2 at a time to be determined.

Assemble Care Packages

During Advent we will not only discuss the love that comes in Christ, but we will live out that love by assembling Care Packages for groups in our community each week. Current plans include college students (for final exams), McMahan Ryan Child Advocacy Center, first responders and our breakfast guests.

Save the Dates!

Advent Potluck Luncheon after worship: Dec. 2. Special music for Advent by choir: Dec. 9.

An autumn song-circle

“Thankfulness: an Autumn Song-Circle,” led by Elisa Sciscioli, Ahrayna Zakos and Jay Leeming, will be held 2–4 p.m. Nov. 18 at Center of Grace, 8219 Market Place, Building 10, Manlius.

You’ll plunge into the joy of singing aloud, exploring chants and songs from African, Sufi, Hindu, European and American cultures in a beautiful and meditative way.

This will be a “perfection-free zone” in which all are invited to swim in our common ocean of song and melody. The group will also pause to be grateful together for all the gifts of this season. No previous singing experience is required.

Cost is a sliding scale of $15 to $25.

Time to order your holiday pecans, so you don't miss out this year

It's that time again. Pecans are being sold to support our Outreach and food pantry programs.

Pecan prices:

|--------------------------|-------|------|
| Extra-large pecan halves | 16 oz | $12 |
| Cinnamon-glazed pecans | 10 oz | $9 |
| Chocolate-covered pecans | 12 oz | $9 |
| Glazed pecans | 8 oz | $8 |
| Pecan caramel clusters | 8 oz | $8 |

It's been a good crop, and prices are the same or slightly lower than last year.

Still have pecans in your freezer?! Drop them in your Thanksgiving bag donations!

The crop will be shipped shortly. We will be available before and after church to take orders.

Or you can call Deb Virgo at 315-415-7840 or email dlvirgo@gmail.com

How to receive The Chimes? It's your call

Decision time is near for some of you to continue to receive The Chimes.

You have two options:

- ◆ In the interests of going green and helping us save resources, you can stop getting the paper version and can receive the electronic version via email, which is in color and often has many more photos.
- ◆ If you get the mailed paper copy and want to continue to do so, we must hear from you by Dec. 31.

If you already get the electronic version, you don't have to do anything to keep getting it.

Email Tom Boll at uumctb@twcny.rr.com or call the church at 315-475-7277 with your choice.

Blessings in a Backpack

Changes have been made in how the food will be distributed. The national organization will send the food directly to Delaware School in blister packaging, and it will be more nutritious. We will not need packers on Tuesdays anymore unless something changes. Thank you for your support.
